B. LEGAL REFERENCES.

1. Charter - Article 6 (b):

"WAR CRIMES: namely, violation of the laws of customs of war. Such violations shall include, but not be limited to, murder, ill-treatment or deportation to slave labor or for any other purpose of civilian population of or in occupied territory, murder or ill-treatment of prisoners of war or persons on the seas, killing of hostages, plunder of public or private property, wanton destruction of cities, towns or villages, or devastation not justified by military necessity."

2. Hague Regulations, 1907:

"Article 46

"Family honour and rights, the lives of persons, and private property, as well as religious convictions and practice, must be respected.

Private property cannot be confiscated."

"Article 47

"Pillage is formally forbidden."

"Article 56

"The property of municipalities, that of institutions dedicated to religion, charity and education, the arts and sciences, even when state property, shall be treated as private property.

All seizure of, destruction or wilful damage done to institutions of this character, historic monuments, works of art and science, is forbidden, and should be made the subject of legal proceedings."
C. Statement of Evidence.

1. Einsatzstab Rosenberg.

a. Formation, Purpose, Powers.

   On 29 January 1940 Hitler issued a decree in the following terms:

   "The 'Hohe Schule' is supposed to become the center for national-socialistic ideological and educational research. It will be established after the conclusion of the war. I order that the already initiated preparations be continued by Reichsleiter Alfred ROSENBERG, especially in the way of research and the setting up of the library.

   All sections of Party and State are requested to cooperate with him in this task."

   136-PS. Certified copy of Hitler order, 29 Jan 1940.

   What began as a project for the establishment of a research library developed into a project for the seizure of cultural treasures (141-PS. Certified copy of Goering order, dated 5 Nov 1940). On 1 March 1942 Hitler issued a decree in which he asserted that Jews, Freemasons, and affiliated opponents of National Socialism are the authors of the war against the Reich and that the systematic spiritual battle against them is a military necessity. The decree thereupon authorized ROSENBERG to search libraries, archives, lodges, and cultural establishments, to seize relevant material from these establishments as well as cultural treasures which were the property or in the possession of Jews, which were ownerless, or the origin of which could not be clearly established. The decree directed the cooperation of the Wehrmacht High Command and indicated that ROSENBERG’s activities in the West were to be conducted in his capacity as Reichsleiter and in the East in his capacity as Reichsminister.

   149-PS. Certified copy of Hitler order, 1 Mar 1942.
The above decree was implemented by a letter from Dr. Lammers, Reichsminister and Chief of Chancellory, directed to the "Highest Reich Authorities and the Services directly subordinate to the Fuehrer." The letter reiterated the terms of the Hitler decree and requested support of the Reich authorities in ROSENBERG's fulfillment of his task.

154-PS. Photostatic copy of Hitler order, 5 July 1942. Lammers' signature.

b. Scope of Activities.

ROSENBERG's activities in the fulfillment of the above decrees were extended, in the West, to France (138-PS. Certified copy of Keitel order, 17 Sep 1940), Belgium (139-PS. Certified copy of order of Reineke, Chief of the General Dept. of OKW, 10 Oct 1940), the Netherlands (140-PS. Certified copy of Reineke order, 30 Oct 1940), Luxembourg (137-PS. Certified copy of Keitel order, 5 Jul 1940), Norway and Denmark (159-PS. Copy of message, 6 Jun 1944. Initialled Utikal).

In the East activities were carried out throughout the Occupied Eastern Territories (153-PS. Certified copy of Rosenberg order, 27 Apr 1942) including the Baltic states and the Ukraine (151-PS. Certified copy of Rosenberg order, 7 Apr 1942), as well as in Hungary (155-PS. Copy of message, 1 June 1944. Initialled Utikal), Greece (171-PS. Original letter, 12 July 1943 and copy of report attached. Signed Wunder), and Yugoslavia (071-PS. Copy of Rosenberg letter to Bormann, 18 Jun 1940).

The function of the ROSENBERG Organization included not only the seizure of books and scientific materials specified in the original Hitler Order (171-PS, supra), but the seizure of private art treasures (1015b-PS. Copy of report, Oct 1940 - Jul 1944), public art treasures (055-PS. Copy of KEITEL issued a further order to the Chief of the 8 Aug 1944).

8 Aug 1944).

c. Cooperating Agencies.

On 5 July 1940 KEITEL (Chief of the OKW) informed the Chief of the Army High Command

(OKH) and the Chief of the Armed Forces in The Netherlands that the Fuehrer had ordered that

ROSENBERG’s suggestion be followed to the effect that certain libraries and archives, chancellories of high church authorities, and lodges be searched for documents valuable to Germany or indicating political maneuvers directed against Germany and that such material be seized. The letter further states that Hitler had ordered the support of the Gestapo and that the Chief of the Sipo (Security Police) SS-Gruppenfuehrer Heydrich, has been informed and will communicate with the competent military commanders (137-PS, supra).

KEITEL issued a further order to the Chief of the OKH, France, on 17 September 1940, providing:

"The ownership status before the war in France, prior to the declaration of war on 1 September 1939, shall be the criterion. Ownership transfers to the French state or similar transfers completed after this date are irrelevant and legally invalid (for example, Polish and Slovak libraries in Paris, possessions of the Palais ROTHCHILD or other ownerless Jewish possessions). Reservations regarding search, seizure and transportation to Germany on the basis of the above reasons will not be recognized.

Reichsleiter ROSENBERG and/or his deputy Reichshauptstellenleiter EBERT has received clear instructions from the Fuehrer personally governing the right of seizure; he is entitled to transport to Germany cultural goods which appear valuable to him and to safeguard them there. The Fuehrer has reserved for himself the decision as to their use. It is requested that the services in question be informed correspondingly." (138-PS, supra).

The above order was extended to Belgium on 10 October 1940 (139-PS, supra), and an identical order was issued by the Chief of the OKH to the Armed Forces Commander in The Netherlands on 17 September 1940 (140-PS, supra).

Hitler’s order of 1 March 1942 states:

"Directions for carrying out this order in cooperation with the Wehrmacht will be issued by the Chief of the Wehrmacht High Command in agreement with Reichsleiter Rosenberg." (149-PS, supra).

Dr. Lemmers’ order of 5 July 1942 declared that the Chief of the OKH, in agreement with KEITEL, would issue regulations governing the cooperation with the Wehrmacht and the Police Services for assistance in making seizures. (154-PS, supra).

An official of the ROSENBERG Ministry for the Occupied East declared the Wehrmacht to be one of the primary agencies engaged in removing art treasures from Russia.

1107-PS. Copy of internal memo, Rosenberg Ministry, 17 May 1944. Initialed Milwe-Schroeder, Ministry official.

Cooperation of the SS and the SD is indicated by ROSENBERG in a letter to BORMANN, 23 April 1941:

"........It is understood that the confiscations are not executed by the regional authorities but that this is conducted by the Security Service as well as by the police........it has been communicated to me in writing by a Gauleiter, that the chief office of the Reich Security (RSHA) of the SS has claimed the following from the library of a monastery:......" (071-PS, supra).

The above letter also points out that there has been

"........close cooperation on the widest scale with the Security Service and the military commanders.....This affair (Operations in Salonika) has already been executed on our side with the Security Service (SD) in the most loyal fashion."

The National Socialist Party financed the operations of the Einsatzstab.
On 30 May 1942, GOERING claimed credit for the success of the Einsatzstab:

"............On the other hand I also support personally the work of your Einsatzstab wherever I can do so, and a great part of the seized cultural goods can be accounted for because I was able to assist the Einsatzstab by my organizations."

1015i-PS. Photostatic copy of letter Goering to Rosenberg, 30 May 1942. Goering’s signature.
e. Method of Operation.

The staff of the Einsatzstab ROSENBERG seized not only "abandoned" art treasures but also seized treasures which had been hidden or in the custody of depots or warehouses, including art treasures that were already packed for shipment to America. (1015b-P3, supra).

Robert Scholz, Chief of the Special Staff for Pictorial Art described the thoroughness with which the Einsatzstab conducted investigations and seizures:

"...These seizures were carried out on the basis of preliminary exhaustive investigations into the address lists of the French Police authorities, on the basis of Jewish handbooks, warehouse inventories and order books of French shipping firms as well as on the basis of French art and collection catalogues.

"...The seizure of ownerless Jewish works of art has gradually extended over the whole French territory." (1015b-P3, supra).

In the East members of ROSENBERG’s staff operated directly behind the front in close cooperation with the infantry.

Von Bohr in a progress report dated 8 August 1944 described the method of seizing household furnishings:

"The confiscation of Jewish homes was effected in most cases in such a way that the so-called confiscation officials went from house to house when no records were available of the addresses of Jews who had departed or fled, as was the case for example, in Paris. They drew up inventories of these homes and subsequently sealed them. The goods are dispatched first, to large collecting camps from where they are turned over, sorted out and loaded for Germany.

Work shops were established for cabinet-makers, watchmakers, shoemakers, electricians, radio exports, furriers, etc. All incoming goods were diligently sorted out and those not ready for use were repaired. Moreover special boxes were dispatched for the use of special trades....."
For the sorting out of the confiscated furniture and goods on the invisible assembly line and for the packing and loading, exclusive use was made of interned Jews. Because of its experience as to confiscation, as to working systems within the camps, and as to transportation, the Office West was able to reorganize their entire working system and thus to succeed in providing for the use in Germany even things which appeared to be valueless such as scrap paper, rags, salvage, etc..." (L-186, supra).

Books, Manuscripts, Documents and Incunabula.

A report on the library of the "Hohe Schule" prepared by Dr. Wunder lists the most significant book collections belonging to the library and confiscated by the Einsatzstab Reichsleiter ROSENBERG in accordance with the orders of the Fuhrer, as follows:

An undated report on the activities of the Einsatzstab Working Group, Netherlands, lists Masonic Lodges and other organizations whose libraries and archives have been seized. The report states that 470 cases of books had already been packed and reports materials seized from 93 separate lodges of the "Droit Humain", the "Grot Costen", the "XOOF" and the "Rotary Club". An additional 776 cases containing approximately 160,000 volumes were seized from the "International Institute for Social History" at Amsterdam. An additional 170 cases were seized from the "Theosophischen Society" and other organizations.

The report states that the value of the above works is between thirty and forty million Reichsmarks. Additional materials to be derived from other sources, including 100,000 volumes from the "Rosenthaliana" collection, are estimated to have a value of three times that of the above, or an additional ninety to one hundred-twenty million Reichsmarks. The estimated overall value is thus between 120 and 160 million Reichsmarks.

Household Furnishings.

The entire furniture seizure action, known as "Action M", is summarized in a report of Von Behr, Chief of the Office West, dated 8 August 1944. The report furnishes the following statistics on results up to 1 July 1944:

- Jewish homes confiscated: 71,619
- Loading capacity required: 1,079,373 cu ms.
- Railroad cars required: 26,984
- Foreign currency and securities confiscated: 11,695,516 RM
- Scrap metal, scrap paper, and textiles dispatched: 3,191,352 kgs.

The report goes on to list in detail, the number of boxes of miscellaneous items seized, including china (199 boxes), curtains (72 boxes), coat hangers (120 boxes), toys (99 boxes), bottles (730 boxes), etc. The report concludes with an itemized statement of the number of wagons dispatched to various cities throughout Germany, to German camps, to SS Division, the German State Railways, the Postal Service, and the Police.
With reference to the work of the Einsatzstab in the Eastern Territories, Robert Schelz reported as follows:

"In the course of the evacuation of the territory several hundred most valuable Russian ikons, several hundred Russian paintings of the 16th and 19th centuries, individual articles of furniture and furniture from castles were saved in cooperation with the individual Army Groups, and brought to a shelter in the Reich." (L-188, supra).

In August 1943, just prior to the loss of Chrocow by the Germans, 300 paintings of West European masters and Ukrainian painters and 25 valuable Ukrainian carpets mostly from the Chrocow museum, were packed and shipped by the Einsatzstab.

Reporting on the withdrawal from the Ukraine, Staff Director Utikel accounts for the removal of the following materials:

From the Museum of Art at Chrocow:

Ukrainian paintings 96
Western European paintings 155
Wood carvings and etchings 12
Carpets and tapestries 25

From the Ukrainian museum in Kiev:

Textiles of all sorts.
Collection of valuable embroidery patterns.
Collection of brocades.
Numerous items of wood, etc.

In addition Utikel reports shipment of a total of 131 cases containing: 10,186 books, the catalogue of the "East" library, art folios, samples of magazines, Bolshevist pictures, and Bolshevist films.

Utikel also states:

"Moreover an essential part of the pre-historic museum was transported away." (C35-F3, supra).
Another report on the shipment of works of art from the Ukraine, dated 12 September 1944, indicates the value of the contents of 85 chests of art objects:

“There are a great many of the oldest icons, works of famous masters of the German, Dutch and Italian schools of the 16th, 17th and 18th centuries, as well as works of the best Russian artists of the 18th and 19th centuries. On the whole, the contents include the most valuable works of the known Ukrainian art possession, which in themselves represent a value of many millions after a cursory appraisal” (055-PS, supra).

Attached to the above report is a detailed inventory listing hundreds of individual objects.

Additional evidence as to the extent of material seized in Kiev is found in a secret note, dealing with measures taken prior to the Russian Occupation, dated 17 June 1944. The note reports the taking of materials from museums, archives, institutions, etc, during the autumn of 1943 on the order of the Einsatzstab and of the Reichs-commissar. During October there were sent to the Reich 40 railway trucks carrying mostly goods belonging to the Central Research Institute of the Ukraine. The report concludes with the statement that when the Soviets entered the town nothing of value was left.

1109-PS. Original note, 17 June 1944. Signed Dr. Ullman.

On 28 September 1941, the General Commissar for White Ruthenia reported the seizure of art treasures in the area of Minsk, destined for Königsberg and Linz. The value of these confiscations was stated to amount to millions of marks.

The Robert Scholz report (10158-PS, supra) declared that:

"During the period from March 1941 to July 1944, the Special Staff for Pictorial Art brought into the Reich:

29 large shipments including 157 freight cars with 4,174 cases of art works."

The report states that a total of 21,903 art objects of all types have been counted and inventoried, and states:

"With this scientific inventory of a material unique in its scope and importance and of a value hitherto unknown to art research, the Special Staff for Pictorial Art has conducted a work important to the entire field of art. This inventory work will form the basis of an all-inclusive scientific catalog in which should be recorded history, scope and scientific and political significance of this historically unique art seizure."

The following is a summary of the inventory attached to the report:

The report states that the above figures will be increased since seizures in the West are not yet completed and it has not been possible to make a scientific inventory of part of the seized objects because of the lack of experts.

As early as 28 January 1941, Rosenberg stated with reference to properties seized in France alone:

".........the value involved will come close to a billion Reichsmarks."

090P3. Copy of letter, Rosenberg to Party Treasurer Schwarz, 28 Jan 1941.

- 13 -
Scholz, in his report on activities from March 1941 to July 1944, expresses the value of the seizures as follows:

"The extraordinary artistic and material value of the seized art works cannot be expressed in figures. The paintings, period furniture of the 17th and 18th Centuries, the Gobelins, the antiques and renaissance jewelry of the ROTHSCHILD's are objects of such a unique character that their evaluation is impossible, since no comparable values have so far appeared on the art market.

A short report, moreover, can only hint at the artistic worth of the collections. Among the seized paintings, pastels and drawings there are several hundred works of the first quality, masterpieces of European art which could take first place in any museum. Included therein are absolutely authenticated signed works of REMBRANDT, van RIJN, RUBENS, Frans HALS, Vermeer van DELFT, VELASQUEZ, MURILLO, GOYA, Sebastiano del PIOMBO, Palma VECCHIO, etc.

Of first importance among the seized paintings are the works of the famous French painters of the 18th Century, with masterpieces of BOUCHER, WATTEAU, RIGAUD, DEGAS, BERANGER, RIBAUD, FRAGONARD, TASSO, ANDRE TISSOT, and de TROY.

This collection can compare with those of the best European museums. It includes many works of the foremost French masters, who up to now have been only inadequately represented in the best German museums. Very important also is the representation of masterpieces of the Dutch painters of the 17th and 18th Centuries. First of all should be mentioned the works of van DYCK, Salomon and Jacob RUISDAEL, WOUTERINZ, TERBORCH, Jan WEECHIX, Gabriel METSU, Adrian van OSTADE, David TENTERS, Pieter de HOOGH, Willem van der VEDE, etc.

Of foremost importance also are the represented works of English painting of the 18th and early 19th centuries, with masterpieces of REYNOLDS, ROMNEY, and GAINSBOURG. CRINCH and JEBBERGER, among the German masters, should be mentioned.

The collection of French furniture of the 17th and 18th centuries is perhaps even more highly to be evaluated. This contains hundreds of the best preserved and, for the most part, signed works of the best known cabinet-makers from the period between LOUIS XIV to LOUIS XVI. Since German cabinet-makers played an important part in this golden age of French cabinetry, now recognized for the first time in the field of art, this collection is of paramount importance.

- 14 -
The collection of Gobelins and Persian tapestries contains numerous world-famous objects. The collection of handicraft works and the ROTHSCHILD collection of renaissance jewelry is valuable beyond comparison." (1015b-P3, supra).

The report refers to 25 portfolios of pictures of the most valuable works of the art collections seized in the West, which portfolios were presented to the Fuehrer. 10 additional portfolios are stated to be attached to the report and additional portfolios are said to be in preparation. 39 leatherbound volumes prepared by the Einsatzstab contain photographs of paintings, textiles, furniture, candelabra, and numerous other objects of art and illustrate the magnitude and value of the collection made by Einsatzstab ROSENBERG.

39 volumes of photographs prepared by "Einsatzstab Reichsleiter Rosenberg".

2. The General Gouvernement.
   a. Confiscatory Laws and Decrees.

In October 1939 GOERING issued a verbal order to Dr. Muehlmann asking him to undertake the immediate securing of all Polish art treasures.

1709-FS. Copy of report of Special Delegate for Art Seizures, July 1943.

On 15 November 1939, Hans FRANK, Governor General for the Occupied Polish Territories, issued a decree providing in part:

"Article 1 - l. All movable and stationary property of the Former Polish State ..... will be sequestered for the purpose of securing all manner of public valuables."

1773-FS. P 1, Decree. Das Recht des General-gouvernements.

On 16 December 1939, FRANK issued a decree providing in part:

"Article 1. - All art objects in public possession in the General Government will be confiscated for the fulfillment of public tasks of common interest insofar as it has not already been seized under the decree on the confiscation of the wealth of the former Polish State in the General Government of 15 November 1939 (Verordnungsblatt GOP, p 37).

Article 2. - With the exception of art collections and art objects which were the property of the former Polish State, art objects will be considered as owned by the public:

1. private art collections which have been taken under protection by the special commissioner for the seizure and safekeeping of the art and cultural treasures,
2. all ecclesiastical art property with the exception of those objects required for the daily performance of liturgical actions.

Article 3. - 1. In order to determine whether art objects are public property in the sense of this regulation, every private and ecclesiastical art possession has to be registered with exact data on the kind, nature and number of pieces.

2. Everyone who possessed or at the present time is in possession of or else is entitled to dispose of such objects of art since 15 March 1939, is obliged to register the same." (1773-FS, supra, p 3).

In order to implement the above decree, the following registration decree was issued in the name of the Governor General by Dr. Muehlmann, Special Deputy for the Securing of Art Treasures:

"Article 2. - 1. Objects of artistic, cultural-historical and historical value which originate from the time before 1850, have to be registered.

2. The registration includes the following:

   a) paintings
   b) sculpture
   c) products of handicraft (for instance antique furniture, chinaware, glass, golden and silver objects, Gobelins, rugs, embroideries, lacework, paramente, etc).
   d) drawings, engravings, woodcuts, etc.
   e) rare manuscripts, musical manuscripts, autographs, book-paintings, miniatures, prints, covers, etc.
   f) weapons, armors, etc.
   g) coins, medals, seals, etc.

3. Regarding the art objects mentioned in section 2, detailed information has to be given if possible, on the master, the time of production, the contents of the representation, measurements and material (for instance, wood, canvas, bronze, etc.)" (1773-PS, supra, p 4).

The seizures authorized by the above decrees ripened into confiscation and assumption of ownership by the General Government, on 24 September 1940 with the issuance of the following decree by FRANK:

"Article 1. - The property sequestered on the basis of Article 1, section 1 of the decree on the confiscation of the wealth of the former Polish State within the General Government of 15 November 1939 (Verordnungsblatt GGF, page 37) will be transferred to the ownership of the General Government." (1773-PS, supra, p 2).

Heinrich Himmler, as "Reichscommissioner for the Strengthening of Germania" issued an "urgent decree" to the regional officers of the Secret Police in the Annexed Eastern Territories and the Commanders of Security Service in Krakau (Charkow), Radom, Warsaw and Lublin. The decree, dated 1 December 1939, was circulated on 16 December 1939, the same date as the promulgation of the decree of Dr. Muehlmann, above referred to. The Himmler decree contains administrative directions for execution of the Art Seizure program.
b. Purpose of Art Seizures.

The purpose of the Seizure Program is indicated in the aforementioned Himmler decree:

"I

1. To strengthen Germanism in the defense of the Reich all articles mentioned in Section II of this decree are hereby confiscated. This applies to all articles located in the territories annexed by the Führer’s and Reich Chancellor’s decree of 12/10/39, and the General Government for the Occupied Polish Territories. They are confiscated for the benefit of the German Reich and are at the disposal of the Reich Commissioner for the Strengthening of Germanism ....

IV

All confiscations made before this decree by authorities of the Reich Führer SS and the Chief of German Police and the Reich Commissioner for the Strengthening of Germanism are hereby confirmed. They are to be regarded as made for the benefit of the German Reich and are at the disposal of the Reich Commissioner for the Strengthening of Germanism." (R-143, supra).

The methodical nature of the Art Seizure Program, and the existence of a general policy of confiscation of art reasures is indicated in Section V of Himmler’s decree:

"In due course the usual questionnaires for cataloguing confiscated articles are to be sent to the Chief Custodian East."

The intention to enrich Germany by the seizures rather than to merely protect the seized objects is indicated in a report by Dr. Hans Posse, Director of the Dresden State Picture Gallery:

"I was able to gain some knowledge on the public and private collections as well as clerical property in Cracow and Warsaw. It is true that we cannot hope too much to enrich ourselves from the acquisition of great Art works, of paintings and sculptures, with the exception of the Veit-Stoss Altar and the plates of Hans Von Altenbach in the Church of Maria in Cracow ...... and several other works from the National Museum in Warsaw ......

R-143. Original Himmler decree, 1 Dec 1939. Himmler’s official seal.

1600-28. Copy of report by Dr. Poosse, undated.
The avowed purpose of the art treasure seizures was the promulgation of German Culture throughout the Occupied East:

"... the result is put down in the catalogue, together with reproductions, and this is a definite proof of the penetration of the East by the German Cultural urge."

1233-PS. Original printed catalogue, undated.

Virtually the entire art possession of Poland, private as well as public, was seized by the General Gouvernement (1233-PS, supra). Document 1233-PS is a catalogue of the more important works of art seized by the General Gouvernement, and paragraph 1 of the Foreword contains the following admission:

"On the basis of the decree of the General Governor for the Occupied Polish Territories of December 15, 1939, the Special Delegate for the Safeguarding of Treasures of Art and Culture was able in the course of six months to secure almost the entire art treasure of the country, with one single exception: the Flemish Gobelin series from the castle in Cracow. According to the latest information, these are kept in France, so that it will be possible to secure them eventually."

The nature and extent of materials seized in the General Gouvernement is indicated in Document 1709-PS. The document inventories the objects seized, and divides them into two classifications: those of primary importance, ("Reich-important"), and those of secondary importance. Articles of primary importance, totalling 521 separate objects, are also set forth in a descriptive catalogue (1233-PS, supra).

The articles catalogued include paintings by German, Italian, Dutch, French and Spanish masters, rare illustrated books, Indian and Persian miniatures, woodcuts, the famous Veit-Stoss hand-carved altar, handicraft articles of gold and silver, antique furniture, articles of crystal, glass and porcelain, tapestries, antique weapons, rare coins and medals. The objects were seized from both public and private sources, including the National Museum in Cracow and the National Museum in Warsaw, the cathedrals of Warsaw and Lublin, a number of churches and monasteries, the Chateau of the Kings in Warsaw, university and other libraries, and a large number of private collections of the Polish nobility.

Items placed in the second category are of the same nature as those placed in Category I. Approximately 500 separate items are catalogued, many of the items including a large number of separate objects treated under a single catalogue heading (1709-PS, supra, Appendix 6 & 7).

The value of the objects seized from 22 collections is stated to be 9,437,000 Zloty. The materials referred to are only a portion of those selected as being of secondary importance. No valuation is given as to the balance of the items of secondary importance or as to the 521 objects selected as being of primary importance (1709-PS, supra, Appendix 7, p 2).

d. Evidence that Seizures were not Merely for Protective Purposes.

In Dr. Possel's report (1600-PS, supra), a number of items are referred to which may be found in the catalogue of art objects "made secure" (1233-PS, supra):

"I was able to gain some knowledge on the public and private collections as well as clerical property in Cracow and Warsaw. It is true that we cannot hope too much to enrich ourselves from the acquisition of great Art works, of paintings and sculptures, with the exception of the Veit-Stoss altar and the plates of Hans von Altdorff in the Church of Maria in Cracow, the Raphael, Leonardo and Rembrandt from the collection Ozartoryski, and several other works from the National Museum in Warsaw, ... works of a rather high value of whose existence

we in Germany had already known. Richer and more extensive is the Polish stock of 'objects d’art', such as handicraft in gold and silver, of German origin to a large part, particularly from the Church of Maria and the Cathedral of Wawel, tapestries, arms, porcelains, furniture, bronzes, coins, valuable parchment scrips, books, etc..."

As I said before, I shall not be able to make proposals regarding the distribution as long as an inventory of the entire material does not exist. However, I should like to reserve for the museum at Linz the three most important paintings of the Czartoryski collection, namely the Raphael, Leonardo and Rembrandt which are at present in the Kaiser-Frederick Museum in Berlin. We in Dresden are particularly interested in the interior decorations of the castle of the Kings in Warsaw since Saxonian architects and artists have created them; therefore, the suggestions is made that the salvaged parts of it (panellings, doors, inlaid floors, sculptures, mirrors, glass-chandeliers, porcelains, etc,) be used for the interior decoration of the pavilion of the 'Ziviniges' in Dresden" (1600-S, supra, p 3).

Appendix 8 of Document 1709-PS lists a large number of objects which were turned over to Architect Koettgen. The items listed include, in addition to paintings, tapestries, etc., plates, dishes, cups and saucers, vases, cream pitchers, glasses, a bread basket, a service tray, and other items of table service. These objects were turned over to the Architect for the purpose of furnishing the Castle at Cracow and Schloss Kressendorf for the Governor (1709-PS, supra, Appendix 8).

A number of objects were transported out of Poland and placed in Berlin in the Depot of the Special Deputy or in the safe of the Deutsche Bank (1709-PS, Items at this location are also listed in the catalogue (1233-PS, supra), as numbers 4, 17, 27, 35, 42, 45, 47, 51, 138, 141, 145, and 148.

Thirty-one sketches by Dürer were taken from the collection Lubomierski in Lemberg:

"The Special Deputy has personally handed over these sketches in July 1941 to the Reichsmarshal who took them to the Führer at headquarters where they remain at the present time. On express direction of the Führer they will stay in his possession for the time being." (1709-PS, supra, p 68).

All art objects seized were screened for those which were important from the German point of view:

"The Reich-Important pieces were collected in a catalogue of the so called 'First Choice'. One copy of this catalogue has been submitted to the Führer who reserved to himself the first decision as to location and use of the art objects of the 'First Choice'". (1709-PS, supra, p 70).
D. Argument and Conclusion.

The establishment, operation and results, of the Einsatzstab ROSENBERG has been too clearly established to require further elaboration. Sufficient it will be to say that this project was without a parallel in history for efficiency, ruthlessness and scope in the plundering and looting of conquered countries.

In the General Gouvernement the looting of cultural treasures was also done under color of official action; first, by the issuance of laws of sequestration, and then by confiscation of the property of the Polish State. Private art collections were first reached by compulsory registration, then by seizure, and finally by utilization for the benefit of the Reich.

Art objects seized and listed in FRANK's catalogue found their way to the depot of FRANK's Special Deputy, to the Kaiser Frederick Museum in Berlin, and into the hands of GOERING who in turn gave them to Hitler. Hundreds of objects were used for furnishing castles for the use of the Governor General.

Their very location and the use of the art works preclude any defense that the defendants seized these art collections for the purpose of safeguarding them. The evidence clearly establishes that they were taken away from their rightful owners and appropriated for the benefit of the Reich and for the individuals.
