Did you have a meeting of this committee on 12 May 1936?

In this meeting did you make this statement: "If we have war tomorrow, we need synthetic raw material substitutes—then be of no importance at all. This be prepared to create the necessary conditions."

On 30 May 1936 was there another meeting at which you presided with the same ministers participating, at which the defendant Schacht warned against over expansion with resulting over expansion? And did you not say: "All measures must be viewed means for actual warfare are to be readily facilities must be, to some extent, in operation."?

At the Parteitag in the fall of 1936 Hitler announced your reappointment as trustee of the Four Year Plan. Is this true?

Tell us the real meaning of the plan, and what was your job?
That gave you a great deal of power, did it

Did you have a special meeting of the same ministers on 4 September 1936 and did you state: "Today's meeting is than all previous meetings"?

Why was that so?

You stated at the meeting "existing reserves will have to be touched for the purpose of carrying us over this difficulty until the goal ordered by the Fuehrer has been reached; in case of war they are not a reliable backing in any case".

What reserves were you talking about and what was there in the situation that required such drastic action as touching existing reserves?

Why were you opposed to Dr. Goerdeler's memorandum suggesting that there be considerable limitation of armaments? What was the strength to which you were trying to bring the German Armed Forces? What was its strength in 1936? Against what nation did you deem it necessary to have even greater armaments?

You read at this meeting a memorandum of the Fuehrer to yourself and to Blomberg. State the general contents of the memorandum.

You state in the minutes that the memorandum "starts from the basic thought that the show-down with Russia is inevitable". What did the Fuehrer mean by that and what reasons did he give? Was it because he had resolved upon carrying forward his policy of expansion to the east?

You speak in the minutes of "the risk in the field of foreign affairs which the Fuehrer runs so continuously". What risk did you have in mind?

Did you feel that war was imminent at the time of this meeting?

Was not that the implication of your statement to the meeting "if war should break out tomorrow we would be forced to take measures from which we might possibly still shy away at the present moment. They are therefore to be taken"?

You state in the minutes "The Fuehrer is going to speak very soon to the industrial leaders and expose to them his fundamental thoughts". What were these fundamental thoughts?

Did he ever express them to the industrial leaders?

What industrial leaders were there?

You state that the Fuehrer achieved "recognition on the part of France that we need a stronger Wehrmacht than France herself". When did the French say that?

Why did you say that "all measures have to be taken just as if we were actually in the stage of imminent danger of war"?

Did you mean that Hitler had settled upon a policy which might make war come at any moment?

If such war broke out, would it not be because of the actions taken by Germany?

On 22 January 1940 you appointed the defendant Funk in his capacity as Economic Minister and Reichsbank President, to develop a program for the new economic order under German domination. Is this true?

And on 19 March 1941, three months prior to approve a plan for an organization for the Soviet Union which was completely independent of military and civilian administrative agencies:

And did you then set up a similar organization of spoliation of France?

Was it not part of the task assigned to you to establish controls over the countries that you invaded and occupied, to direct their material resources and manpower in the interests of German war economy even though it denied to the local population the product of its essential industry?

Do you recall a meeting on 14 October 1938, a few Munich agreement, with the same ministers present Can you tell us what you announced at this meeting?

And did you then develop a program designed to execute these orders?
