NAZI SEIZURE OF UNIONS

Refers to interrogation of previous day, amending his testimony on the Nazi seizure of unions to read: (p.1) uncertain that Gauleiters were informed at Munich meeting, (p.2) is uncertain that the D.A.F. took over immediately after seizure, (p.3) is uncertain about seeing the memorandum on seizure; only acquainted with the contents.

In his opinion the Gauleiters had the responsibility to see to it that the funds were turned over properly (p.1)

RUESTUNGS-COMMISSION

The so-called Ruestungsinspectoren mostly represented the Wehrmacht in large armament centers. They concerned themselves with approving procurement of materials or anything that was connected with the armament production, such as questions about the material, machines and number of workers. They further tested finished products (p.2). Speer appointed them to the Bedarfspruefungskommission, which was to solve disagreements between Sauckel and Speer. The D.A.F. was interested in the welfar of the workers (p.3)
