In this interrogation, Kaltenbrunner is given the opportunity to state the names of a number of people whom he believes would be witnesses in his favor. In addition he states the evidence in substance which he believes could be obtained from each witness. Final witness named is Ribbentrop. He states that Ribbentrop can confirm his contention that he always opposed Himmler with regard to the Jewish question and concentration camps (15). Witness is then asked whether he accepts Ribbentrop’s word without question. He replies in substance that if he were to sit down with Ribbentrop, the latter would agree with him on what has happened. He believes it possible, however, that Ribbentrop if accused of any particular act would try to place the blame on the Security Police (16).